Trail Description: The Carpenter Peak Trail is a well signed trail that passes through scrub oak and pines on its way to Carpenter Peak. It starts its life as the Willow Creek Trail and then joins the South Rim Trail before heading west and then north to Carpenter Peak. You have the option to take a connector to the Colorado Trail just before you reach the summit if you'd like to prolong your hike. TIP: Contact Roxborough State Park for trail updates.

Highlights:

 Great views of the incredible "flatiron" shaped red rock formations
 Views of the high peaks to the north and west

 Hike to the highest point at Roxborough State Park

 Abundant wildlife in the thickets and meadows along the trail
